

DESIRABILITY OF DISTRIBUTING JANIS
TO COLLEGE, UNIVERSITY, AND RESEARCH LIBRARIES

1. Recruiting additional personnel for JANIS contributors and for JISPB staff might be facilitated if the character and quality of JANIS were more widely known.
2. A greater pool of researchers with some background in topics covered by JANIS is more likely to be available if JANIS could be used during part of the training of graduate students.
3. It might be easier to interest college researchers in undertaking studies for JANIS at some time in the future if they were familiar with JANIS.
4. Researchers occasionally may be able to supply some information not at present known to JANIS.
5. Independent research projects in colleges and universities would be less likely to repeat studies already made for JANIS if JANIS could be seen, and research projects would therefore be more likely to add new information of value in possible revisions or expansions of JANIS.
6. Access to JANIS during college days would help raise the level of information on foreign countries for students who may some day find themselves in the military forces in positions where such a background would be valuable.

Changes necessary to declassify various JANIS studies for distribution to selected Universities, Colleges and academic institutions.
